Lazure is a technique for applying several layers of transparent color washes on walls, enlivening interior spaces with breathing, light filled color.

We will Lazure the Branch's newly renovated areas in anticipation of the Elderberries Cafe moving into the space.

We will look to Steiner's indications for public spaces in Urban areas for color schemes.

The two day workshop will begin Saturday morning January 20th with color samples and participants can learn the brush technique which is radically different from painting with flat opaque paints. Then right away on the first day we will test color layers and apply the first several washes on the walls.

There will be down time in between layers for participants to break for morning tea, for lunch and afternoon tea.

The next day will add layers and depth to the colors as needed. By the end of the workshop you will learn all you need to know to go home and do this work in your home or office.

Nancy Melvin will lead the workshop, a former Waldorf Grades Teacher and teacher of wet on wet painting to children. She has lazured many Waldorf classrooms, most recently the EC extension of CWS in Lincoln Square, Angelic Organics Farm and the foyer of CWS's EC area.
